Leviste found guilty of homicide; gets 6-12 years in jail

BIG SMILE Former Sandigan Pres. Antonio Leviste smiles broadly for the cameras when he arrives at the Makati City Regional Trial Court before Judge Elio Almendra to face his guilty.

By Allan W. Lopez

HOW DID HE COME TO THIS?

He was described as a bunch of fresh air when he first emerged as a politician, climbing to a position at the top of the public hierarchy in his province.

Yesterday, Jose Antonio Leviste, former governor of Batangas and estranged husband of a popular senator (see profile on this page), was found guilty of homicide in the killing of his long-time aide Rafael de los Angeles two years ago. He was sentenced to 6-12 years in prison.

A lone shot would have justified Leviste's claim for self-defense, said Judge Elio Almendra. But four bullets pumped in the head of De los Angeles destroyed this assertion, said the presiding judge of the Makati Regional Trial Court.

The blooded De los Angeles found slumped on his seat, with a gun driven thru his wrist and his finger near the trigger, beside Leviste's office in Legaspi Village on Jan. 12, 2005.

Leviste, who admitted killing his friend but said he did it to save himself, presented seven witnesses who testified on De los Angeles' "violent behavior."

The former governor claimed he had been threatened shortly past noon when he reportedly shot at an angry De los Angeles, who was allegedly demanding P1 million for a ransom.

He surrendered to Makati

Ombudsman: 10 prosecutors involved in case-fixing

By Erika Sauter and Edna C. Tancin Jr.

ABOUT 10 PROSECUTORS handling various cases are involved in the alleged "cases fix" at the Department of Justice (DOJ), Ombudsman Marcelino G. Gutierrez told reporters in a forum yesterday.

Gutierrez said her office, together with the National Bureau of Investigation, was already looking into reports she received that several prosecutors were engaged in case-fixing.

"I will not be specific. We cannot divulge details just because it will derail the investigation," he said.

Gutierrez said she got the information at the time of the alleged bribery at the department for the release of the "Nabang Boys" leader.

AMID TALK OF A PLOT TO UNSEAT him, Chief Justice Reynato Puno yesterday spoke about the need for a "moral force" in the country.

Puno said it was not the legal system that could solve the country's problems but the moral system.

Before speaking to a group of businessmen last night, the Chief Justice said citizens leaders should step forward and act as "moral forces" in "defending the destiny" of the country as it was suffering from moral decay.

Puno also said he was ready to face any struggle to improve him.

"It is very obvious that the main problem of the country is moral decay. This is the root cause of the density of poverty, corruption problem," Puno said reporters before talking to the Arel business group in Cebu, Pangasinana.

"You look at it more deeply. You look at it from its various dimensions. That's why... it's one of the moral forces of the country to manifest themselves. They should come to be an invisible force. They should play a dominant role in restoring the destiny of our people," he added.

Cops to test customers of Metro bars for drugs

PNP chief says move part of antidrug drive

By Marko Ramos and Henry C. Carpio

IN LINE WITH EFFORTS TO ADDRESS THE PROBLEM OF ILLEGAL DRUGS, Philippine National Police Director General Jesus Verano yesterday said he has ordered his men to conduct random drug tests on clients of bars and similar establishments in Metro Manila.

"As part of the antidrug campaign, we want to deploy [random] agents in bars and establishments, especially high-end bars, and make them subject to random drug tests to find out the influence of illegal drugs to be law-abiding citizens to a drug test," he said recently.

Verano was in Quezon City to attend the groundbreaking ceremony for a new police and fire station which will be built on E. Rodriguez Avenue, Barangay Inangpang in Quezon City.

"The PNP chief, however, admitted that his director might pose a problem to his men who could not be accused of being involved in the fight of customers of the illegal establishments."

"What we can do is get the approval of the person concerned to undergo a drug test so we could not be accused of being involved in the fight of customers of the illegal establishments," Verano said.

He added that the plan would also require the full cooperation of the owners of business establishments in Metro Manila.

"Owners should allow policemen inside their premises and besides, if their clients have something to hide, they would not refuse to undergo a drug test," Verano said.

Quezon City Vice Mayor Herbert

Verano, chief of the city's antidrug council who was also at the groundbreaking ceremony, expressed his support for the PNP chief's plan to conduct random drug tests in various establishments in the city.

"Drug testing is provided for in the Dangerous Drugs Act as long as the person concerned will agree [to the procedure]," Verano said.

Verano made the announcement at the top police official in Metro Manila and several bars and clubs frequented by young people have become drug hot spots.

Going to the police station to report illegal drug spots is a common sight in Metro Manila. According to National Capital Region Office of the Director Leonides Banaag and several establishments in Manila, Taguig and Quezon City have been identified as places where there was rampant selling of illegal drugs.

This has been confirmed by the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency, according to Banaag.

"Drug pushers have made these bars their hangout and venue for peddling illegal substances such as cocaine, marijuana, shabu and ecstasy," he said in the bureau.

"Students and other teenagers are their primary victims," Banaag said.

However, he declined to name the establishments, saying they were closely coordinating with PDEA agents to "conducting drug tests" which risk names and operators.

Asked if the list of bars in Manila will be included in their monitoring, he said, "Yes, I think the PDEA also confirmed it."

The management of the bar, however, has been denied that illegal drugs were being sold or used within its establishment.

The increased campaign of the police against illegal drugs was prompted by the increasing smuggling of "Mabu" bars, there were who were accused in drug tests in Manila and Cebu, Quezon City. According to PDEA, the three reported drugs and other illegal substances to customers of popular night spots in Metro Manila.

Banaag, meanwhile, said that only 300 of 1,000 bars in the metropolitan have not been closed by drugs.

According to him, records of the NCR-PN Regional Anti-Illegal Drug Special Ops, evidence that drugs showed that 1,000 bars were not closed by drugs.

To close the remaining villages of the drug business, he urged police officials to "work on the community and educate the people on the effects of drugs by conducting lectures in schools and barangay meetings," he said in a statement.

Banaag also asked local executives to support their campaign "to really close down the demand for illegal drugs."

Mind where you throw that gum, Fernando tells U-Belt students

By Allison K. Lopez

HELP THE DISCHARGE YOUR MIND.

The Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) recently urged students in the University Belt in Manila to help the agency keep the area clean by disposing of their ash—which includes bubble gum—properly.

According to MMDA Chief Regional Director, they were reminding them that cleanup efforts to transform the U-Belt into a "clean city" is the ongoing goal.

"Cleaning up the U-Belt is not a one-time job, it is a continuous process. We want to make sure that the U-Belt is a clean city," he said.

There are 20 universities and colleges in the area.

Last week, he called to students of Ateneo de Manila University in Legaspi about how they could win the problem of illegal vendors and informal vendors to the area.

MMDA General Manager Robert Francisco said they have installed new street lights in the U-Belt which containing their campaign to clear all streets and sidewalks of obstructions.

Francisco said the physical cleaning of the area, which includes the sweeping of sidewalks and sidewalks, must also include the cleaning of the area.

"This is beneficial to the students, they will have a clean and beautiful area. When they go home to their parents, they will have something to be proud of in their parents and friends," he added.

Francisco said the students have engaged all positively in the agency's efforts in sweeping up the U-Belt which he stressed that as stakeholders, the students must also be involved in the MMDA's campaign.

60% OF YOUR HAIR COULD DISAPPEAR IN JUST TWO YEARS.

A full head of hair has an average of 100,000 hair strands. But if you're predisposed to baldness, you'll lose approximately 100 strands per day. In one year, 36,500 strands could disappear and in just 2 years, 60% of your full head of hair could be gone.

Baldness not only affects men physically, it also results in adverse psychological effects. For many, it could be the loss of youthfulness, confidence, vitality and potency, while for others it could be the root of their insecurity and embarrassment.

The dissatisfaction with the appearance and self-image is primarily the bigger impact. Men begin to look and feel older than their actual age and unattractive to the opposite sex. Most of them lose the confidence to meet new people and date women and become victims of men with better hair. Some also experience embarrassing situations being the butt of jokes.

State's debt stock up 2%

By Michelle V. Rana

THE GOVERNMENT'S DEBT STOCK ROSE 2 percent to P1.19 trillion in October last year, from P1.15 trillion in the previous month, due largely to the strengthening of the dollar.

In a year-on-year basis, the latest data figure saw a 16.2 percent increase from the P1.75 trillion in December 2007.

The debt, if divided among the estimated 99.4 million Filipinos this year, would mean that each Filipino would have a share of P19,261 to cover liabilities of the state.

This is due to the Treasury's operations. The debt of the Treasury rose 2 percent in the previous month. The government's bond ratings last year were used to plug its budget deficit.

A large number of government bonds accounted for 75.04 percent of the total. This was up 12.2 percent from P1.73 trillion in September.

The RP said the increase in the government's external debt was due to the depreciation of the peso due to the US dollar and the weakening of other currencies against the greenback.

The depreciation of the peso against the dollar made the government's debt denominated in dollars and registered in peso terms. In the meantime, the depreciation of other foreign currencies against the US dollar also increased the country's liabilities denominated in dollars.

The RP also said the government's foreign debt rose to P702.67 billion as of end-October, up 4.7 percent from P512.69 billion in the previous month. Sovereign debt is the liability of government-owned and -controlled corporations covered by foreign guarantees. These liabilities will have to be shouldered by the government in case of default.

Other sources said the government's debt would continue to rise as it has to have a budget deficit, which forces it to continue borrowing to help fund all government projects and programs.

Besides covering the government's social and program, liabilities are also used to pay maturing obligations.

Gov't to sell stake in PNOC-EC in H1

Finance chief eyes P16B from the sale

By Abigail L. Ho

THE REVENUE OFFICE OF THE GOVERNMENT'S largest stake in PNOC Exploration Corp., which has been delisted for several months in the past due to a number of reasons, has been slated for the first quarter of the year.

Finance Secretary Margarita Tirona said the government was still looking at privatizing all portions of its stake in the state firm, and that the delisting process would be concluded within the first half.

"The PNOC-EC will be this year's first sale, but the proceeds will be used for the first quarter of this year," she said. Of course, we have to be sensitive about the market condition and the reaction of the investors," Tirona said.

The privatization should have been completed in the last quarter of 2008, but the government's share in PNOC-EC is in a state of limbo due to its delisting process.

In an earlier interview, PNOC-EC president Raul Palar said a contract was reached last year to have the unit 2009 to cash through with the privatization plan this year.

"We want to make the better deal, when the market recovers," he said.

He said the government would continue to monitor the market to determine when the best time would be to proceed with the privatization, as well as how to do it best.

The approved mode of privatization by PNOC-EC would be an initial public offering, a block sale and tender offer, he added.

"There are all will be using evidence. The mode of privatization will depend on how much cash we want to get and how easy this money can be generated," PNOC-EC president said.

Sugar millers lower production forecast for crop year '08-'09

ANALYSIS: Prices of fertilizers push up sugar production costs, discouraging farmers to produce more.

THE PHILIPPINE SUGAR MILLERS ASSOCIATION (PSMA) has lowered its sugar production forecast for crop year 2008-2009 to 2.197 million metric tons due to unfavorable weather conditions and high fertilizer prices.

"We are still looking for a recovery but as of this, 2008 (2008), the estimated output was 2.197 million MT for the crop year (2008-2009) in August 2008," PSMA executive director Atanacio Amador said.

The industry earlier set its target production level at 2.5 million MT this year, but lowered it to 2.197 million MT. The revised target was lower than the 2007-2008 output of 2.5 million MT.
